Bratten Way Update

The sealing of the last 580m of the second section has been held back due to excess pavement moisture. This section being the last being placed and recent rain last week, the pavement did not pass the final moisture testing.

With a continued forecast of rain, further delays are expected until warmer weather allows this section to dry back before the surface can be prepared for sealing.

Council apologises for these delays, however sealing excess moisture into the pavement will lead to a poor long-term outcome for the road.

We once again thank the road users for their patience and request the posted speed limits be followed as to not damage the road surface.
