PRESIDENTS REPORT

Hello Coffin Bay,

Well things are slowly getting back to normal at the Community Hall. The library is open on Tuesdays, Pilates classes are now on Tuesdays & Thursdays and Markets will be back on the 12th July.

Most of you would be aware that the Health Clinic will be closing at the end of December and maybe you were wondering where Dr Rowe would be moving to. Well after her Christmas break she will be moving into a spare room in the Community Hall, this is great news and we are happy that the Hall will be used for something that is so important to our Community. Later in the year we will be looking for some volunteers that can help Dr Rowe set up her room. Old carpet needs to be removed and a floating floor put down, the room will need painting and maybe a bit of electrical & plumbing work will need to be done too and we will be asking if anyone would be able to make her some nice new curtains.

Don't forget to buy some tickets in our latest raffle, $300.00 worth of vouchers from local businesses. Tickets are available at the post office and from any members of Progress and will be drawn on the 14th July.

Cheers, Carol Fathers

Meet the Local Birds by Doug Clarke

Whenever I see one of these little birds in the garden it gives me cheer. They could be mistaken for Willy Wagtails in silhouette but a closer inspection will reveal they are smaller, mostly grey with white eyebrows and chin.

Now Willies are pretty active little birds, but their smaller cousins are HYPER! Hardly ever seen resting, these birds are aerobatic wizards in catching flying insects and a delight to watch. The smaller insects are swallowed mid-air and the larger taken back to a branch for treatment before going down the red lane. Very prominent is their “fantail”, always waving from side to side while roosting and constantly splayed out. The superb photo by Ian Berry has captured the splay moment exactly. (Thanks Ian).

Unlike Willies, Grey Fantails avoid open areas. So, you are more likely to see them in gardens with trees and bushes. They are quite people friendly and if you sit quietly you can enjoy their wonderful aerial gyrations up close.

Their beautifully constructed fine straw/plant matter cupped nest, bound together with spiders’ web is sited in a thin horizontal tree/bush fork. The nests have a distinctive tail underneath the bowl. They are likened to wine glasses without a stem. Usually two eggs are laid. Grey Fantails are found from the tropics south to Tasmania.

Footnote: Little Willy

Six weeks ago, a Willy Wagtail took a shine to our neighbour Graham and us. I don’t know if it’s M or F, but let’s call her a she. It took a few weeks to get acquainted but we’ve sort of got a routine going now. She twitters her presence with ascending loudness outside our glass slider. On being admitted, she flies to the cutting board, chittering impatiently until some cheese has been finely diced. After eating, she has an inspection flight, cleaning up any daddy-long-legs in between short roosts on cupboards, ceiling fan blades, curtain pelmets and my head. Next, she follows me into the garden, hopping and flying, half a step behind. She waits alongside or on my hand as I roll over the stones bordering our drive. Earwigs are her particular delicacies. The larger ones get belted on a stone until they have been mangled sufficiently to swallow. It’s a real thrill to have gained the trust of a tiny wild creature.

Gardening Tip

by Phil Siviour

Coffin Bay Gardening Service

Now is the critical time to deal with soursobs. If they are producing buds but not yet open, they should be sprayed with a weedicide containing glyphosate. Once the soursobs have flowered it's too late.

Deciduous fruit trees such as apples, plums, peaches and apricots can be planted over the next month. Choose the sunniest position in your garden, otherwise, make sure they will have at least 6 hours direct sun during the day.

If your brassicas are under attack from green caterpillars, spray the leaves thoroughly with Success. It is too late to plant these, but asparagus, strawberries, peas and potatoes and broad beans can be added to your garden.

Say Hello to Our Local SAAS Team Members

Kaye Ferguson

1: What was your reason to apply to join SAAS as a volunteer.

I think there were three main reasons – to get help to our community as quickly as possible; to learn the best first aid skills ever; and to give myself a worthwhile challenge.

2: Did you have any experience with Health learning.

Nope, just first aid courses that I'd done through work.

3: Were there many changes to your everyday life.

Not heaps no. We're required to do 30 hrs of roster time each month which sounds like a lot but it's actually not – it's only 7.5 hrs per week. Usually I do one night shift a week, between about 8pm and 4am, so that covers my 30 hrs easily. And the bonus is I can volunteer while I'm asleep, where else can you do that?! I also do day shifts if I'm working from home and can afford to be interrupted. Generally, it's pretty easy to plan the days or nights when I'm on call around my work, family and other commitments.

4: How often do you go to training.

I go to weekly training as often as I can, but there's also times when I can't make it due to my own work commitments or my partner's. Our Regional Team Leader Chris and Volunteer Team Leader Ann are acutely aware that ambulance is not the only thing in our lives and are very understanding and flexible.

5: Has training enhanced your skills.

We're a fairly healthy community here in Coffins which is great, on average we only get about 1 call out per week. But it also means that training is critical for keeping our skills current and learning about and practicing changes in our clinical protocols or equipment. I have been a qualified Ambulance Officer since late 2017 but without fail I still always learn something at training. We undertake scenarios in people's homes, out and about in Coffins, or at the station and work with real 'patients' as well as training mannequins that can simulate a whole range of conditions. Sometimes finding the assessing and treating the patient. We also get the chance to do joint scenarios with local SES and CFS crews which helps us understand the equipment and skills that they have so we can work effectively together to treat and extract patients. I've also taken the opportunity to increase my skills and experience by doing shifts with the Paramedic crews in Lincoln and Paramedics also come to run trainings for us here in Coffins so we can learn better how to help them. They're all so appreciative of what volunteer crews do and there's a great rapport between our local Paramedics and the volunteer crews.

6: What is your family dynamics and would you recommend volunteering to others.

I live with my partner Craig and my 6 year old daughter Erica. When I started thinking about volunteering, Erica was about 18 months old and I saw an article about a local volunteer Sarah who had 4 kids and was also doing shiftwork in her day job as a Police Officer. I remember thinking if she can make time then surely I can! Now I'm proud to say that Sarah and I regularly crew up together.

I've always looked at Paramedics and thought 'I'd really like to know some of the stuff you know'. I'll admit when I started my training I still wasn't sure if it was the right challenge for me. But I can pinpoint the moment when I thought yep when that pager goes off I feel ready to suit up and go. I've had the privilege of providing care for some of the legends of our community, of being a familiar face for locals going through prolonged illnesses that require frequent ambulance visits and also for visitors or locals whose day has gone a bit pear shaped due to injury or illness. We're so well supported by back up from Lincoln or other volunteer crews as well as Extended Care Paramedics over the phone. Ambulance is only one part of my life, but it has become such an important part that now I can't imagine life without it.

The page is decorated with several stylized green leaves of various sizes and shades of green, scattered around the text. Some leaves are at the top corners, some along the sides, and some at the bottom.
