Eyre and Far North Local Health Network

- July 17 -

The COVID-19 outbreak in Victoria puts South Australia at much greater risk of an outbreak. We have seen interstate the impact the virus can have on aged care residents and we want to prevent that from happening in SA.

One way we can do that is by screening everyone who comes into our aged care facilities. Visitors also need to provide proof they are protected from flu, in accordance with the Commonwealth Government Emergency Legislation that applies to all aged care facilities.

We are now recording the names and phone numbers of all visitors to aged care facilities to help with timely contact tracing if required.

Visiting hours are 2-3pm (3-4pm Ceduna) and 6-7pm.

Two visitors (maximum) are permitted to visit once a day but may be increased if required.

Stay away if you are unwell, have a fever, cough or sore throat.

Thank you for helping us protect our aged care residents.

CARVE THEIR NAMES WITH PRIDE

War, they said.

We'll be in it, they said.
And we'll win it, they said.

Girls. Just girls. Home girls. Working girls.
City girls, country, outback and coast girls,
fledglings with untried wings,
they flew their coops. Kept flying.

And The Forces claimed them, trained them,
square-bashed, marched and maimed them,
schooled in skills undreamed,
watched them soak it up,
used them, abused them, paid peanuts;
finally admired them.

Give us the job, they said,
Then stand aside.
And 66,000 girls freed an army.

First the nurses, active on all fronts,
the VAD's, AANS and AAMWS, stabilised the horror, comforted the agony,
were captured, lost at sea, gunned down.
Then WAAFs, WRANS and AWAS surprised a nation besieged on all fronts;
experienced the mateship of service.

And the world saw them as drivers,
mechanics, cryptographers, signallers,
manning radar, labs, stores, offices,
searchlights, anti-aircraft batteries,
as instrument and parachute makers,
doing the unnamed and endless duties of total war.

Watched them step out, trim soldiers,
immaculate in grey, khaki and navy blue,
hair bobbed above the collar,
proud servicewomen networking a future.

And 66,000 girls, now women of substance, flew into The Peace clenched small and tough and ready for something better.

Hard to put a name to it but they knew it was there.

Dead timber removal trial on hold

Council has put on hold any further removal of dead timber along the Oyster Walk and Coffin Bay foreshore area after seeking the views of Department of Environment and Water following completion of the three trial sites. After inspecting the trial site, the Department has raised the following concerns:

- Considerable damage had occurred to the understory of the remaining vegetation.
- For two thirds of the sites there had been an increase in the weedy growth when compared to photos taken before the trial.
- The removal of the surface cover has left the sites more prone to erosion.
- There was minimal native vegetation regeneration observance since the trial.
- The removal of standing dead timber removed the potential for nesting hollow development.
- The trial left the remaining vegetation more exposed to the elements.
- Some of the standing trees showed signs they may have been alive when removed.
- The trial resulted in a decrease in the habitat quality, quantity and diversity for native species.

There are also concerns that if the work continues it may see an increase in weed cover across the coastal zone, reduced germination and recruitment of native species, potential for increased erosion, removal of critical habitat for native species.

Council has now deferred any further dead timber removal works until at least Spring 2021 to assess if the concerns raised by the Department of Environment and Water are realised.

For more information, refer to Agenda Item W&I/55/20 of the September Agenda/ Minutes.
